THANKSGIVING AT NORTH BAY—First and fifth graders at North Bay Elementary School sing patriotic songs Wednesday during a flag salute ceremony staged in observance of Thanksgiving. The children, dressed as

Procecution is the key to deter shoplifting

BY RANDY PONDER
The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is the peak shoplifting season. On average, one out of every 10 people in a store is a thief during this time.
In an effort to combat this serious problem which costs the honest customer $150 per year, the Hancock Chamber of Commerce and the Hancock County Extension Service sponsored two anti-shoplifting seminars last week.
"We can't eradicate shoplifting, but we can control it," said Dr. Tom Loftin, Community Resource Development Specialist, MS Cooperative Extension Service.

"The key is prosecution. The business that doesn't prosecute shoplifters is asking for trouble," Loftin stated.
"If your business has a reputation in the community for taking a hard stance on shoplifting, the potential thief will know this and go somewhere else," Loftin explained.
Prosecution is the biggest deterrent to shoplifters.

"Anyone in the store is a possible shoplifter," Loftin continued. "The rich, the poor, even the little old lady."

"Good basic selling techniques, being attentive to your customers will also help reduce the threat of shoplifting," Loftin concluded.
Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson stated shoplifters will take anything.

"Merchants should warn each other if they suspect professional shoplifters are in the area," Peterson said.

"Each store should have their own policy on how to handle the shoplifter. What steps to follow, who confronts the shoplifter, etc. Be sure that every employee knows what to do and what not to do," Peterson added.

"Shoplifters are treated like any other criminal when arrested. They will be finger printed, photographed and placed under bond," the sheriff explained.

Bay-St. Louis City Judge Joseph H. Benvenuti warned merchants not to be over zealous in their pursuit of shoplifters. "Get your facts straight," he said.

Benvenuti then gave several examples of people unintentionally walking out of a store with merchandise, such as a pack of cigarettes, in their pockets.

Mississippi law states that the willful concealment of unpurchased goods or merchandise shall constitute prima facie evidence that such person intended to convert same to his own use without paying and that the finding of such goods on the person or his personal belongings is evidence.

In layman's terms, if you put it in your pocket you have committed a crime. The store owner can charge you with shoplifting even if you haven't left the store.

"Some people let their emotions get away. They want to jump right in there and do something," Benvenuti stated. "It is usually better to at least allow the suspected shoplifter to go past the cash register before stopping him. You have a better case in court. That person will not be able to say that he intended to pay before he left."

Plane forced down, three arrested

BY DENA BISNETTE

Three people have been arrested in connection with the forced landing at Diamondhead of a single-engine plane loaded with marijuana.

According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the plane was forced to land at the Diamondhead Airport at about 3 p.m. Sunday by U.S. Customs agents operating out of New Orleans, La.

Two seats of the four-seated Cherokee Six plane had been removed and the space had been loaded with 432 pounds of marijuana.

Two men on the plane were arrested and the marijuana seized and sent to the Mississippi Crime Laboratory facility at Gulfport. The aircraft is being held at Diamondhead for the customs agents, Peterson said.

The two were identified as Ben York, 37, of Louisiana, and Jeffrey Chamblin, 38, believed to be from South Carolina.

A third suspect, Andrew Hopper, 21, also of Louisiana, was arrested later at Diamondhead Inn.

Three additional vehicles, a car, a van and a U-Haul trailer, were also seized. The trailer contained the two airplane seats and a quantity of airplane fuel, Peterson said.

The sheriff said the three were taken to Federal Court in Biloxi Monday morning for an arraignment hearing and were then turned over to federal agents.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has filed state charges against the three in addition to the federal drug-traffic charges.

Agencies involved in the arrest included the Sheriff's Department, U.S. Customs Service, U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency and Gulf Coast Security Service.

Sheriff's department arrest three juveniles, search for another

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Three juveniles have been taken into custody and one juvenile is being sought in connection with several burglaries in the Pearlington area.

The youths arrested, all white males of the Pearlington area, are each charged with four counts of burglary of a dwelling, Hancock County Investigator Delbert Seay said.

There has been partial recovery of stolen items, he added.

Items missing from the four homes burglarized have an estimated value of $1,000 and include weapons, fishing equipment, ammunition and skis, Seay said.

Seay said the matter is still under investigation and that there could be other charges from additional burglaries.

The youths were arrested Nov. 21-22 in the Pearlington and have been released to the Youth Court.

Circus sets up house in Hancock County for the winter season

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Elephants, tigers and lions are included in the menagerie of animals that will be residents of Hancock County for the next several months as the Roller Brothers Circus spend the winter season at the fairgrounds.
The county fair association has leased a portion of the fairgrounds and the livestock barn to the circus as winter quarters.
Circus owner Jim Roller said after spending the past several winters in Arkansas, he is looking forward to the warmer climate of the Bay St. Louis area.
"Florida is where most circus people spend the off-season but it is so far off our track it's not practical to go there," he said.
The two adult Asian elephants and a young African elephant will be undergoing training at the fairgrounds this winter preparing for the next season, Roller added.

Also in training will be several cats including two tiger cubs, two leopards, a cougar and a jaguar, he added.

Roller said most of the smaller stock had been pastured out but that some goats and ponies are being housed at the fairgrounds.

"There will be a lot of activity going on here but we welcome visitors," he said.

Roller also said the circus is planning an open house later in the winter season.

"This will give the public an opportunity to see how we work," he said.

Santa Claus to kick off

Christmas season

Santa Claus will officially kick-off the Christmas season Sunday, Dec. 1, at 4 p.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

Santa will arrive on a fire engine to visit with all the children, according to Cathy Ladner, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce special events chairman.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz, Waveland Mayor John Longo and President of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors A.A. "Dolph" Keller will perform the official lighting of the Christmas tree. Local choral groups will also be on hand to provide musical entertainment.

The public is urged to attend this event and bring the children to visit with Santa.

Unidentified female body found near Pearlington

BY DENA BISNETTE

The skeletal remains of an unidentified woman have been found near Pearlington.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the body was found about 10 a.m. Wednesday morning in a wooded area off Whipple Road by a group of deer hunters.

"Right now, it appears the body is that of an adult white female less than 30 years old," Peterson said. "We think she had black hair."

He said the remains were too decayed to provide a more detailed description until further examination is made.

The sheriff said the body may have been in the woods for about two to four months, but Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet said the woman might have been dead about six months.

He said cause of death was not immediately apparent.

Stiglet plans to take the remains to the Mississippi Crime Laboratory in Jackson for examination by State Medical Examiner Thomas Bennett, the sheriff added.

Peterson said a pair of female-type boots, apparently brown with high heels, was also found and are believed to belong to the dead woman.

Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Delbert Seay and Mississippi Highway Patrol Investigator T.P. Naylor are in charge of the investigation, which is continuing.

Highway Patrol cautions holiday travelers

Highway Patrol officials are cautioning motorists that the four-day Thanksgiving holiday observance has a 10-year history of being the third deadliest holiday period in Mississippi, claiming 105 lives in automobile crashes since 1974.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays tied in 1984 as the deadliest observances when 14 people were killed in motor vehicle crashes in Mississippi during each period.

The Thanksgiving message from Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr., centers around the holiday as an American custom.

"It is a great tradition to give thanks for what we have, the most important of which is life. I would encourage motorists to remember that while traveling during the holidays which begin Wednesday evening," Roberts said.

Motor vehicle operators, including drivers of 18-wheelers, are being warned that speeders, persons driving without a license or with an expired or suspended license, and drivers under the influence of drugs or alcohol will be prime targets for state troopers during the 102-hour observance.

"To keep safety in the minds of motorists, our troopers will set up driver license checkpoints across the state on state and federal highways at various times on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday," according to Colonel George Saxon, chief of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

"We all know that vehicles driven too fast cause fatal crashes, as do drunken and drugged drivers. What may not be realized by the general public is that thousands of people who drive are doing so without a license, which means they have not been tested for visual acuity, driving skill or general knowledge of traffic laws," the chief said.

"Highway Patrol troopers issued 18,400 citations in 1984 to people for driving without a license. These were people who had never been licensed to drive.

"Another 3,600 motorists were cited for driving with an expired license and 8,600 drivers, whose license had been suspended, were issued citations for driving.

"Additionally, our troopers issued 25,214 citations in 1984 to motor vehicle operators who failed to have their automobile inspection certificates (stickers) renewed," Saxon explained.

"Tickets issued to unlicensed drivers and those driving whose licenses are expired or suspended are categorized by law enforcement agencies as non-hazardous violations, but an unlicensed driver can be the most hazardous driver on the road," the chief said.

"We realize that some citizens may not read well enough to take and pass the written test that is required before a driver license can be issued. To assist those persons, our driver license examiners and testing clerks will administer oral examinations from material contained in the Mississippi Driver's Manual when requested to do so by a driver license applicant," Saxon said.

The Thanksgiving holiday begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 27, and ends midnight Sunday, Dec. 1.

Waveland Players turn in suspense-filled performance

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Players' current production, "Crimes of the Heart," should delight anyone who enjoys suspense.

The play, written by Hazlehurst native Beth Henley and set in that town a few years after Hurricane Camille, is directed by Ted Stechmann and features Lynn Daniels, Joyce Ohman, Tommy Worrell, Susan Stevens, Lorelei Ling and Martin Booda.

Daniels, Stevens and Ling play the Magrath sisters, three women with an army of skeletons rattling their closet doors.

When the youngest sister shoots her husband, the three are reunited in the kitchen of their grandfather's home and the skeletons come parading out, one at a time.

Daniels as Lennie Magrath lends a pathetic quality to the oldest sister, with downcast eyes, wringing hands and a voice constantly on the verge of tears.

Her best scene is in the third act, when she finally begins to stand up to other people, particularly her cousin Chic Boyle.

Ohman plays Boyle, who resents her cousins because she believes some of the things in their pasts have degraded the entire family.

Ohman's chief strength in playing the part is the ability to say complimentary lines with a look and posture that shows resentment and exasperation.

Stevens, as Meg Magrath, the middle sister, almost has to play two characters and handles both well.

When Meg is onstage with other characters, she adopts a defensive attitude, complete with an arrogant posture, a cigarette swinging from her mouth and a strong voice.

As soon as Meg is alone on stage, Stevens transforms her into a lonely, soft-spoken woman whose best memory is Doc Porter.

As Porter, Worrell seems less sure of himself on stage than the other actors but this tends to be consistent with the character, who is meeting an old girlfriend he has not seen since Camille.

Ling's performance as Babe Botrelle, the youngest sister, is frantic but suits the character.

In the first act, Ling's acting appears somewhat stilted. Later scenes, however, explain the stilted quality when the true reason Botrelle shot her husband is revealed.

Ling is also good at turning what could be a serious matter, suicide, into high comedy.

Booda rounds out the cast with an earnest performance as a young lawyer with a personal vendetta against Botrelle's husband.

All six do a credible job of turning a slow script into a show that should leave its audience wondering how many more secrets the three sisters have.

The play opens Friday and Saturday at the Waveland Civic Center and continues next weekend. Curtain time for all four performances is 8 p.m. and tickets are available at the door.

Deadline nears for barley, wheat

November 30 is the final planting date for insured Barley and Wheat in Hancock County, Mississippi, according to Joan M. McCartney, a representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

Insured Barley and Wheat planted by November 30 must be reported by December 15 in order to receive full crop insurance coverage. The acreage report reflects the actual acreage planted and reported by the farmer.

"During the growing season, if damage occurs, notice should be given promptly," Joan M. McCartney said.

A new crop insurance plan, called Actual Production History (APH), is available this year to producers of Wheat, Barley, Oats, and Rye in addition to Corn, Grain Sorghum, Peanuts, Cotton, Rice, and other crops.

"Increasingly, our insured producers are discovering that with a yield guarantee which reflects production capability, crop insurance establishes a farm income floor. Thus, cash flow and the ability to repay a loan may be more accurately projected," explained Joan M. McCartney.

Educational improvements need widespread community support

The importance of obtaining educational improvements in local public schools needs to receive parent support.

In recent years, education appeared to be the sole responsibility of school administrators and teachers. Some parents are concerned, but far too few.

The Mississippi Legislature, with strong support from former Governor William Winter, began a move on improving the state's educational standards.

At an educational forum sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Association of Educators last week, only 15 persons were in attendance, and most of them were teachers.

On the other hand, several groups of parents, concerned about their children's education, are being organized locally.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has a task force working with local school boards in hopes of helping school officials improve educational standards.

At the National Space Technological Laboratories in Hancock County, a Teachers' Resources Center has been established.

State Senator Gene Taylor at the forum emphasized the need for public support in education.

Assistant Bay St. Louis Superintendent Robert Magee stated, the success of the reform act and effective school movement is going to depend on how the public receives what is going on behind the classroom doors.

The public, of course, are the citizens of our communities.

Parents need to get involved in groups promoting educational standards, find out why or why not certain things are being done in our schools.

Educators, like political leaders, need citizen input.

Low interest bond money available

Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis said that a recent bond sale has made housing mortgage money available to qualified families at a lower rate of interest than normally available.

Taylor, who represents Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson Counties, said that slightly more than $180 million is available to be loaned out statewide at 10.15 percent, on 25-year, fixed rate mortgages.

Taylor said that the county allocations are as follows: Hancock

$2,623,287; Harrison - $16.7 million; and Jackson - $12,666,788.

The bond program is administered by the Mississippi Housing Finance Corporation which makes the proceeds of the sale available to banks and savings and loan institutions which in turn loan the money to eligible borrowers.

To qualify in Mississippi, applicants must meet industry credit standards and have claimed no more than $35,000 adjusted gross income on last year's federal income tax return. This $35,000 maximum may be adjusted by an additional $1,000 for each dependent claimed on the return.

Federal standards govern the maximum purchase price for the homes to be mortgaged. The maximum purchase price allowed is $94,380 for new homes and $70,950 for existing homes.

Persons interested in borrowing money should check with their local lending institutions to see if they qualify and if their institution has funds available or call the Mississippi Housing Finance Corporation at 961-4514.

Since the initial bond issue in 1980, there have been 10,193 loans made to low and moderate income Mississippi families for a total of $435,694,343.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

AFTER THE SUMMIT: A DIALOGUE BEGINS

The real impact of November's historic summit—the meeting between Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev—is not likely to be felt immediately.

The measure of its progress toward resolving the differences between the United States and the Soviet Union will not be found in the string of opinions that we will be bombarded with in the coming weeks from purported insiders. Rather, it will be in the direction of the arms control talks in Geneva which resume in January.

We did not get an outright arms control agreement from this summit, but we really never expected one. Six years of East-West tensions since the last summit certainly are too much to be resolved in two days.

At best for the U.S., a summit adds a human element to the relations and mobilizes the Congress behind the President in a united foreign policy goal. The President reported to Congress afterward that he could not claim that he and Mr. Gorbachev had had a meeting of the minds on such fundamentals as ideology or national purpose. "But we understand each other better," he said.

"That's key to peace."

I have always felt that if we could at least get regular meetings between these two leaders or their successors, that would be positive in itself. The President has agreed with Mr. Gorbachev that they will meet again in 1986 and in 1987, first in the U.S. and then in Russia. That's positive.

You know, if you are talking, it's a lot more difficult to do any fighting. And, as the two superpower leaders are talking, they will be instructing their negotiators in Geneva to adjust their talks accordingly and hasten their vital work.

In this summit, our leaders agreed that each side should move to cut offensive nuclear arms by 50 percent in appropriate categories. They called for an interim accord on intermediate-range nuclear forces, hopefully leading to the elimination of this class of missiles. This action would be accompanied by tough verification.

So keep your eyes on Geneva. I am convinced that Ronald Reagan genuinely wants to be remembered as the President who makes real arms control reductions possible.

Reader remembers seeing comet

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

I wonder how many in Bay St. Louis were around in 1910 to see the Comet? I was nine years old and a cousin took Mama and me out on a clear road in his single-seat buggy and I was lucky enough to see the beautiful thing - the Comet - and it would be just as thrilling to me now when I am several times more than nine, if someone will take me where I can see it.

Seeing a comet isn't a famous thing that comes around often, is a spectacularly beautiful sight in the sky that one can never forget.

Mrs. Philomene Johnston
We were visiting my grandmother (Mere Mere) at the time of the comet or I would not have had the pleasure of witnessing the beautiful sight. I am hoping to see it again as I have never forgotten the beautiful sight when I was a young child.

I hope many here in our little city have the pleasure of seeing the most wonderful sight. To me it looked like some beautiful something carrying a sack of transparent jewels. I have thought of how mysterious and wonderful it was.

Now at 84 I am wishing to see the Comet again and I am sure the thrill will be the same, maybe more intense. I am sure no one could wish a more beautiful sight and an unforgettable one.

Dear Sir/Madam:

I wanted to compliment you on your visitor information center I recently stopped by near Pass Christian.

It is the nicest I have visited, and the free Coke was a very good idea, especially on hot days.

Today we observe Thanksgiving in America. We, as Americans, can be thankful for so many things people of other nations lack.

One of the most important things is the freedom to travel from one end of the country to the other without having to have permission, also to attend the church of our choice, and to express our religious beliefs without fear of oppression.

America is a great nation. Let us all be grateful today to be Americans.

Santa Claus is coming to Hancock County on Sunday at 4 p.m.

The jolly old man from the North Pole is scheduled to arrive at the Hancock County Courthouse on top of a fire engine.

We have word that Santa's reindeers do not like to travel in the warm Hancock County weather.

We know many youngsters would like to visit Santa and give him their wish list.

Santa's arrival is an annual event sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

It is hoped many parents will remember to have their children ready for Santa's visit.

While on the subject of Santa and children's Christmas wishes, The Sea Coast Echo has again made special arrangements with Santa at the North Pole to publish letters to Santa.

Children may mail them to Santa, North Pole, c/o P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

The Echo, after receiving the letters, will forward them to Santa.

We hope all children will receive their wishes at Christmas.

Congratulations are in order for Dick Thomas on his being elected president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Other officers to be congratulated are Anthony Lolacano, vice-president, and Joyce Lee, secretary-treasurer.

Thomas is no stranger to the job as president, having served in the position two previous terms.

The trio will officially assume their positions at the chamber's annual Christmas banquet to be held at the Diamondhead Country Club on Dec. 5.

We wish these business and Hancock chamber leaders much success in the coming year.

Eyes on Mississippi

by Bill Minor

If the budget battle going on in Congress is confusing to you, you haven't seen anything yet. Wait until the battle of the budget starts down here in Mississippi.

I should say the battle of the budgets, not one, but two state budgets—one from Gov. Bill Allain and a second from the Legislative Budget Office, otherwise known as ELBO.

Mississippi may be the only state in the nation which has two complete, duplicate agencies which prepare proposed fiscal budgets to the Legislature. In almost every state, there is only one proposed budget, the executive budget, recommended by the governor.

That's in keeping with the generally accepted doctrine that the legislative process works best when the governor proposes and the Legislature disposes.

But in Mississippi we must pay for the luxury of duplicate budget agencies in order to satisfy the ego of the Legislature, or, more precisely, certain powerful legislators.

When the State Supreme Court three years ago ordered lawmakers off the State Budget Commission and said that the governor has the responsibility of recommending a state budget, the legislative leaders who considered the Budget Commission their own preserve were like kids whose toys had been taken away.

If the governor was going to have his own budget agency, the lawmakers said, then we are going to have one too.

So when the governmental reorganization bill was passed in 1984 to carry out the Supreme Court mandate, the state wound up with the Fiscal Management Board for the governor and the Legislative Budget Office for the Legislature.

Significantly, the legislative group, ELBO, was given more money, and consequently has more staff, to prepare a budget than does the FMB.

This means that ELBO has considerably more analysts to examine individual agency funding requests and get input from agency heads than does the budget arm of the chief executive who is responsible for the overall administration of state agencies.

In the first experience of having two budgets proposed to the 1985 legislative session, the Legislature proceeded to pitch the governor's budget in the wastebasket and used their own budget as the working document.

But the duplication of budget effort doesn't stop there. After the legislative session begins, the full Appropriations committees of both the House and the Senate start the process all over again.

This brings into play an entirely new set of characters, since only a few members of each committee are on ELBO. Agency heads are brought in for another round of hearings, and sub-committees from the Senate and House prowl the capital landscape, seldom working jointly.

By this time, any resemblance to what was originally proposed in the ELBO budget (or the governor's) is purely coincidental.

Next comes the appropriating ritual of the Mississippi Legislature by which every agency is given its funds in a separate appropriation bill—sometimes three or four separate bills.

This means that no one single budget bill, but some 250 single-shot appropriation bills are floating around the Legislature, part in one branch, part in the other.

Then the last stage of the Magnolia Money Maze is reached when some 100 appropriation bills (that many last time) wind up in abominable House-Senate conference committees, and everybody stands around the last three weeks of the session waiting for the conference committees to bring back the bills for final passage.

You would think that after such a complex, strung-out budgeting process, Mississippi would then have a model, perfectly balanced budget when it was completed.

Far from it. Witness what happened just a couple of weeks ago when Governor Allain and the Fiscal Management Board had to go in and make $47.4 million in mid-year cuts in state agency appropriations because the money isn't in the state treasury. More cuts in agency appropriations will likely have to be made in December.

This is the third time in five years that mid-year cuts in funding authorized by the Legislature have had to be made.

All of the above is related only to the convoluted process of budgeting in Mississippi, and doesn't even get to the heart of the fiscal problems which the 1986 Legislature will face. It must reduce the level of funding for the most valuable services the state provides in order to stay within anticipated revenues from the present tax structure.

At least public education, including the new kindergartens, seem safe from cuts. But the case can easily be made that services such as higher education, public welfare, public safety, public health and mental care are already underfunded and cannot stand cuts.

No doubt budgeting in the 1986 session is going to be brutal business.

WALKING:

A NATURAL EXERCISE

Q. I would like to jog, but find the pounding causes pain in my legs and feet. Walking has been mentioned as a substitute, but is walking really exercise?

Walking is one of the most enjoyable ways to improve your physical fitness without the potentially harmful consequences of jogging.

Jogging has become the exercise for many Americans in recent years, and is rapidly becoming a national pastime.

In one day, Americans jog an average of 28 million miles. As a result, they burn 2.8 billion calories, or approximately the number of calories in one million pounds of chocolate.

What few people realize, however, is walking produces many of the same benefits of jogging—it just takes longer to recognize them.

Though the conditioning effects of jogging aren't recognized as quickly if walking is substituted, frequent, fast-paced walks improve circulation in the legs and enhance muscle strength.

Research shows that a half-hour of walking, five times a week, with a six pound load results in a significant improvement in one's physical condition in less than four weeks.

Walking also can help to keep you in shape once you've achieved good conditioning.

Walking for health is recommended for most everyone for many reasons. It requires no special training; it can be done year round by nearly anyone, especially the elderly and those with such medical problems as arthritis, emphysema, and heart disease; and it can be done at a variety of speeds and in a variety of ways.

For example, you might walk to work if the distance is reasonable. At work, consider taking the stairs rather than riding the elevator.

Sports which involve walking are valuable. These include golf, hiking, backpacking and hunting.

Another benefit of this underused form of exercise is weight loss. Without reducing calorie intake, walking regularly can help you lose weight.

Other benefits of walking are a decrease in the weakening of the bone due to the aging process, a reduction in blood pressure, and relaxation after a hard day.

As in most other sports, a walking exercise program should include some preliminary thought. You should begin slowly the process of walking to health.

Gradually work up to a pace of three or four miles an hour, for at least half an hour at a time. The pace set should not leave you exhausted. Instead, the exertion on your heart should be measured by setting a pace that increases the heart rate. As you become more fit, you'll be able to increase your walking rate and your time, while maintaining the same heart rate.

Dress appropriately for the weather conditions. This includes wearing the right kind of shoes—running shoes will be best for most situations. In warm weather, wear loose clothing that breathes, and drink plenty of liquids. In cold weather, layer your clothing so you can shed a layer if you get too warm. Be sure to wear protective coverings for your head and hands during winter months.

Before you begin on your daily walk, you can do stretching exercises similar to those used by joggers to help you get started right. Check with your doctor, especially if you have any orthopedic problems or chronic illness and to set the heart rate you should set as a goal. Choose a pleasant route and enjoy your walk to health.

This Thanksgiving it is important for us to remember those teachers who have made a significant impression in our hearts as we ponder over the time, love, and personal interest they took to make a difference in our lives.

These thoughts concerning Thanksgiving were given to me by just such a teacher, in turn I would like to share with you.

This Thanksgiving

Mend a quarrel.
Seek out a forgotten friend.
Dismiss suspicion and replace it with trust.
Write a love letter.
Share some treasure.
Give a soft answer.
Encourage youth.
Manifest your loyalty in word and deed.
Keep a promise.
Find the time.
Forego a grudge.

Forgive an enemy.
Listen.
Apologize if you were wrong.
Try to understand.
Flout envy.
Examine your demands on others.
Think first of someone else.
Appreciate.
Be thankful.
Be kind; be gentle.
Laugh a little.
Laugh a little more.
Deserve confidence.
Take up arms against malice.
Decry complacency.
Express your gratitude.
Go to church.
Welcome a stranger.
Gadden the heart of a child.
Take pleasure in the beauty and wonder of the earth.
Speak your thanksgiving.
Speak it again.
Speak it still once again.

The Community Thanksgiving Worship is a tradition for the Bay-Waveland area. Each year hands are joined across denominational and racial lines in praise and gratitude for the many blessings which are ours.

This year the host church will be Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. The speaker for the occasion will be Father William Kelly, SVD, of St. Augustine Seminary. Other ministers from throughout the community will also participate in the service of praise.

The offering which will be received will be given to the Hancock Emergency Relief Fund - a fund which is used to help the needy, local and transient, through a coordinated program.

The service will begin at 7 p.m. in the Sanctuary of Main Street Church. A nursery will be available for those who desire to leave their children there.

DANCIN' - "He Makes Me Feel Like Dancing" follows Jacques d'Amboise, a principal dancer with the New York City Ballet, as he teaches 1,000 New York City youngsters how to dance. This Academy Award-winning film airs at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 3, on Mississippi ETV.

WHAT SHALL I DO WITH JESUS? (NO. 3)

"I'll persecute Him," was the cry of religious intolerance. Intolerance is seen in the action of Saul of Tarsus. "And Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest and desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem. And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven: and he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul why persecutest thou me? And he said who art thou Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the goads." (Acts 9:1-5)

Jesus identifies Himself with his disciples. Therefore, when we strike them, we strike Him. When we persecute them, we persecute Him. Today, those who practice immorality often persecute righteous people through ridicule and sometimes violent means. Those who are intent on following the creeds of men become intolerant to those who demand chapter and verse in the proper context for what is taught and practiced in religion. Those who do not believe in God, when they have the opportunity, destroy the bodies that conflict with them. Millions have died at the hands of the communists.

"I'll postpone my answer," was the answer of feeble indecision. An example of this attitude is seen in the Palestine Roman Governor Felix. "And after certain days when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ. And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgement to come, Felix trembled and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee." (Acts 24:24, 25)

There is no record to indicate the convenient time ever came. Conviction to obey Christ must be strong enough to overcome all obstacles in our way of obedience. Procrastination has been the thief of many souls. The person who delays his decision for the Lord makes a decision against the Lord.

Some say, "I will obey when my wife or husband obeys God." Such an attitude may cause both to be lost. The greatest encouragement is to see obedience in action. A husband or wife or a son or daughter can have a great impact upon a loved one out of Christ to obey Christ. Peter wrote, "Likewise ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands, that if any obey the word, they also may be won by the conversation (behavior) of the wives." (1 Peter 3:1)

RSVP Report

BY THERESA JAMES DIRECTOR

The recent RSVP Recognition Luncheon was held at the American Legion Post 77 Hall in Waveland. It was a huge success and almost 235 of the 310 RSVP volunteers attended. This is a special event held once a year to honor those volunteers who serve Hancock County by volunteering at non-profit agencies all year. This is our chance once a year to thank them publicly. We thank all of the officials who attended, also those leaders of our community who helped make this day a success.

We have recently enrolled 14 new volunteers, making the total number of volunteers 314. There are many areas where volunteers are needed. Some of these are: Delivering meals to homebound, helping at the Waveland Hospitality Center on Hwy. 90, the Senior Craft Shop on Hwy. 90. We will need more volunteers there as the holiday season approaches. We hope to have a good season this year because the small profit made from the sale of hand-made articles helps RSVP obtain the matching local funds needed to secure federal funds. We include these funds in our budget each year and depend on the shop to supply a small portion.

If anyone would like to volunteer, please call the office 467-9204. Your services are needed to help others.

Land Bank default would devastate economy

If the Federal Land Bank of Jackson should default as a result of the depressed farm economy, the impact could have devastating effects on Mississippi's economy, according to a study released by the bank recently.

The bank called for the impact study in conjunction with the release of data by Chase Econometrics which indicated the entire U.S. economy would be severely disrupted by a collapse of the Farm Credit System.

While such a default is not anticipated, the nation's leading agricultural lender has been besieged by loan losses as farmers struggle to cope with low commodity prices and high operating expenses for four years in a row.

The bank's findings are based on the following consequences of a Land Bank default in the State of Mississippi for just the first year:

- Loans to 10,617 Mississippi farmers could be in jeopardy for a total of $854 million;
- A total of 21,481 jobs would be lost;

- Lost production would be valued at $1.4 billion and lost income would total $1.2 billion.

The figures were based on the assumption that only 50 percent of the land financed by the Land Bank could be refinanced elsewhere.

"We measured only the direct impact of a bank failure," stated bank President Warner Bruner. "No attempt was made to measure the amount of indirect economic loss which could be staggering as a result of the ripple effect."

The Chase Econometric study involved the entire Farm Credit System which includes the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Production Credit Associations, the Bank for Cooperatives, as well as the Federal Land Bank.

Among consequences identified as probable is the system should default on its security obligations were an increase in home mortgage rates to 15.5 percent, a 3.5-4.5 percent increase in farm interest rates; a $28 billion loss by holders of system securities; and a 32 billion increase in the federal deficit during the first year.

A total of 1.5 million jobs could be lost in the U.S. by the second year. Lower employment and a smaller income base could increase the federal deficit to $265 billion in the second year.

The Chase report further revealed that 43 percent of the commercial agricultural banks in Mississippi could face a capital shortfall if the Farm Credit System is forced to default.

Because of continuing deterioration in the U.S. agricultural economy, the system has requested federal financial assistance to restore stability to the farmer owned lender. It projects a need of some $6 billion to keep the system viable.

Last week, the Farm Credit System assistance bill was introduced in the House of Representatives which would provide the mechanism for financial assistance and establish a "financial warehouse" for non-accrual loans and acquired farm properties. It would also restructure the Farm Credit Administration to make it a strong, arms-length regulator.

"We urge constituents in the State of Mississippi to contact their congressman about this critical measure," said Bruner.

"In addition to preserving farmers' source of credit, it will go a long way toward returning stability to the entire agricultural industry."

Craftsmen's guild presents show, sale

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Craftsmen's Guild presents its annual Christmas show and sale at the Coast Coliseum and Convention Center. 100 artists and craftsmen will be participating. The show will take place Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29-30, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thanksgiving weekend at the Coast Coliseum and Convention Center.

Veterans must return forms

According to Samuel J. Maraman, Jackson VA Regional Office Director, about 55 percent of the Eligibility Verification Reports (EVR) that were mailed in October have been returned.

The VA sent out income report forms to veterans, widows, and children in receipt of pension under laws that were in effect prior to January 1, 1979, and to dependent parents of veterans whose deaths were caused by service-connected disabilities.

The EVR's should be returned by Dec. 15, 1985, to allow the VA processing time in order to prevent a delay in payments.

If assistance is desired, they may contact the Jackson VA Regional Office between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The statewide toll-free number is 1-800-682-5270. If you live in the Meridian area, call 693-6166; in the Gulfport/Biloxi area, call 432-5996. The number in the Jackson area is 965-4873.

SLIPPED DISC

Of all the conditions which involve the spine, the so-called "slipped disc" is probably the most misunderstood. Typically it is the vertebrae rather than the disc which has actually slipped. When this happens, a spinal nerve opening between two adjacent vertebrae can close up, and cause acute pain, numbness, and even loss of function of that part of the body served by the involved nerve.

All-Conference players selected, Williams is Coach of the Year

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis Tigers Head Coach Cleveland Williams has been selected Coach of the Year for the Deep South Athletic Conference.

In addition, nine Bay High players and four Pass Christian High School players have been selected for the 1985 All-Conference Team.

"If it hadn't been for our boys and my assistant coaches, I wouldn't have this honor," Williams commented.

Tiger players on the All-Conference team include running back Willie Lewis, line men Trace McRaney, Stace McRaney, Butch Pierce and Greg Necaise; backs Matt Fairconnetue and Louis Burton; wide receiver Dennis Dear; and punter Craig Breland.

All are seniors except Necaise, who is a junior.

According to Williams, all players are nominated by their own coaches and are selected by a vote of coaches from throughout the district.

Lewis was Bay High's leading rusher this year with 636 yards and 10 touchdowns.

On the line, Trace McRaney had 38 solo tackles and 117 assisted tackles, while Stace McRaney had 21 solo tackles and 65 assists. Necaise had 21 solo tackles, 85 assists and six quarterback sacks.

Pierce has served as starting center for the Tigers for two years, Williams said.

"Matt did a pretty decent job for us in the outside linebacker slot. Louis Burton was a good back, but I think he was much more outstanding on defense," he added.

"Dear had been with us since seventh grade and has been a great split end. He's always around the ball."

Breland was the Tigers' starting punter and averaged about 37 yards per punt this season.

Pass Christian's All-Conference players include tailback Winston Ausmer, safety J.W. Dedeaux, and line men Rod Jenkins and Jason Dedeaux.

Ausmer was Pass Christian's leading rusher this season with 152 carries for 619 yards and six touchdowns. In addition, he had 10 pass completions out of 21 attempts for 173 yards.

J.W. Dedeaux served the Pirates as quarterback in addition to safety and gained 261 yards in 64 carries and 12 pass completions for 165 yards.

Jenkins was third for the Pirates in tackles with 26 solos and 17 assists. Jason Dedeaux had 36 tackles and 17 assists.

The second team selections included, from Bay High, Quentin Bell, Robert Hargett and Aaron Whavers; and from Pass Christian, Vincent Henderson, Gary Smith and Mike Cook.

Most Valuable Players for the conference include three Bay High players: Trace McRaney, Most Valuable Defensive Linesman; Willie Lewis, Most Valuable Offensive Back; and Craig Breland, Most Valuable Punter.

As 1985 Deep South Conference Champions, Bay High will host the 1985 All-Conference awards ceremony. The date for the event has not been set.

Sportsmen group offers toll-free number

With the opening of the first deer gun season interest in the S.M.A.R.T. (Sportsmen of Mississippi Acting Responsibly Together) program is picking up. The Mississippi Wildlife Federation reports that calls to the toll-free "SMART-line" at the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation have increased dramatically in the last few weeks.

"We feel that all the calls are coming in on the SMART-line because there's just naturally more activity this time of year with people getting ready for the gun season," said Mississippi Wildlife Federation President Sam King. "Another reason for the increase in calls is that the word about the S.M.A.R.T. program and the toll-free number is really getting out now," King stated.

"Law Enforcement officials at the Department of Wildlife Conservation are enthusiastic about the toll-free number and believe that it will aid their law enforcement efforts," King added. "Whenever concerned citizens get involved in trying to put a stop to unethical behavior, it has got to be a help."

Stated King, "About 20,000 bumper stickers and S.M.A.R.T. pamphlets have been distributed, and we're getting calls every day from people wanting information materials. County and local S.M.A.R.T. groups are being formed in all parts of the state to promote ethical hunting and to protect our wildlife and fisheries resources."

S.M.A.R.T. will help insure that there will always be wildlife to hunt and enjoy, that there will be available places to hunt, and that the public will continue to support hunting by promoting ethical hunting behavior and landowner-sportsman cooperation and by improving the image of hunters and hunting.

S.M.A.R.T. is a cooperative effort of the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, the Mississippi Bowhunters

Association, the Mississippi Trap-pers Association, the 82 Conserva-tion Association, the Mississippi Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation, the Mississippi Muzzle-loading Hunters Association, the Mississippi Firearms Owners Association, the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, the Marion County Chapter of the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the Mississippi B.A.S.S. Federation, and the Mississippi Forestry Association.

Bay High, Long Beach turn back SSC in varsity action

The Bay High Tigers unleashed a 19-point fourth quarter effort to defeat the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws 49-36 in a varsity basketball contest played Monday night at the Bay High gym.

Andre Daniels and Martin Elzy combined for 46 points to lead the Tiger attack. Daniels had 23, followed by Elzy with 20. For SSC, YaSin Shabazz had 15 points followed by Tom Walton with 10 points.

SSC held a 30-29 lead going into the last quarter, when Elzy and Daniels took matters into their own hands. Both players did all of the fourth quarter scoring for the Tigers as they combined for 19 points, while the Rocks were held to seven points.

After trailing St. Stanislaus for three periods, Long Beach came alive and outscored the Rocks 17-6 in the final period to capture a 42-35 victory over St. Stanislaus in a varsity basketball game played Saturday night in the SSC gym.

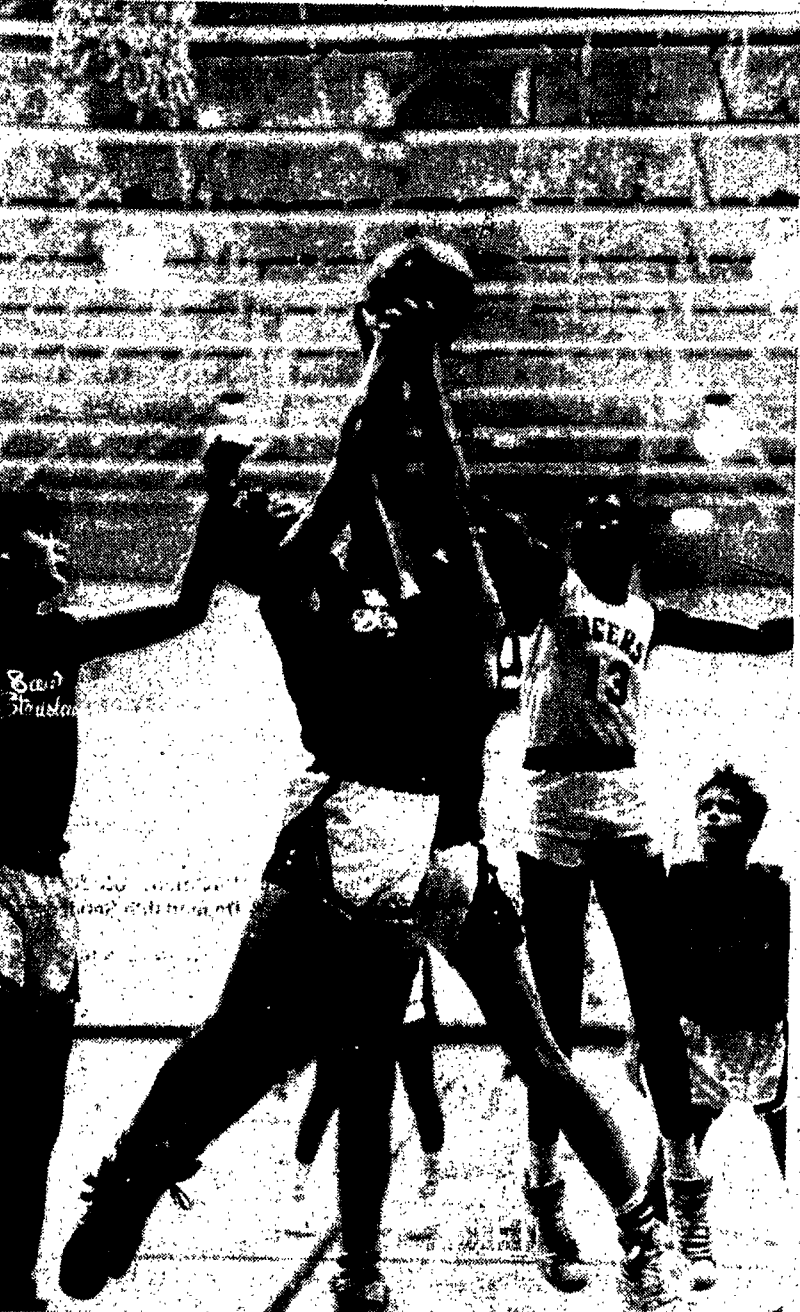

Leading scorers were Cory Lyons with 19 points and Robert Taylor with nine points for Long Beach, while YaSin Shabazz had 10 and Tom Walton eight points for the Rockchaws.

Free-throw shooting hurt the Rocks, as SSC made only five of 18 attempts, while Long Beach sank 10 out of 20 from the free-throw line.

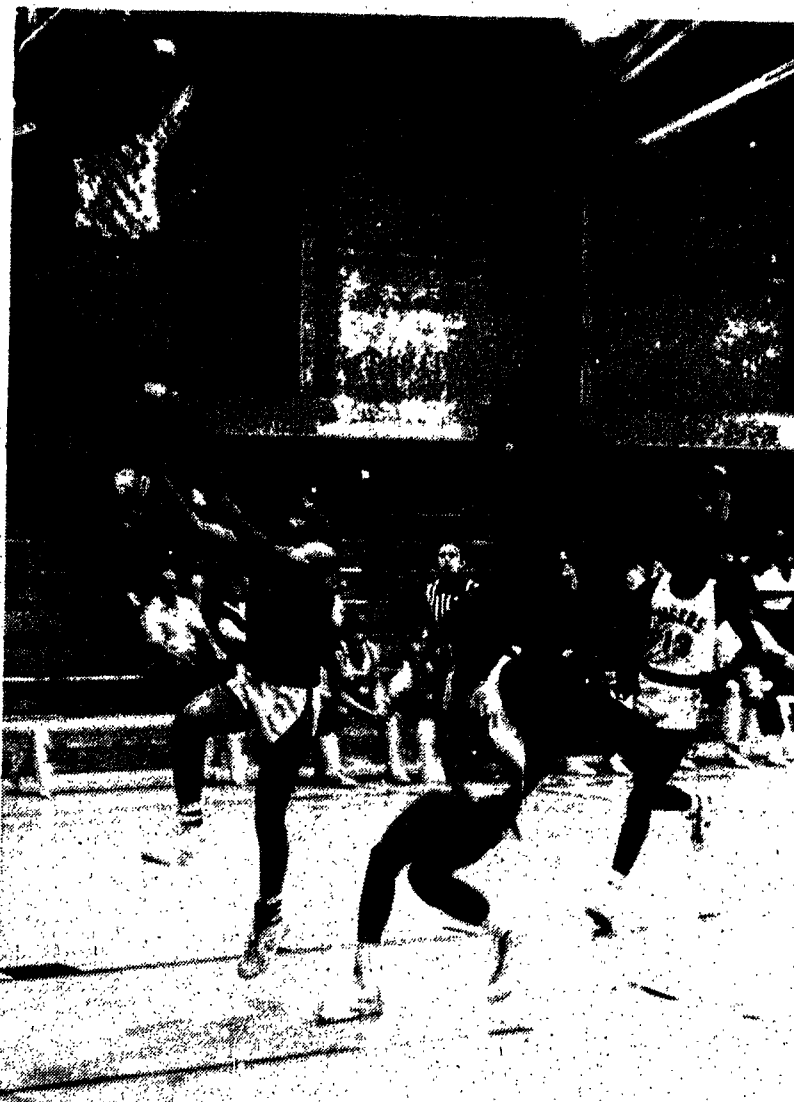

Long Beach now has a season record of 2-0, while St. Stanislaus fell to 0-2.

In the preliminary Junior Varsity contest, Bay High rolled over SSC by a score of 52-35. Leading the attack for the Tigers were Brian Laneaux with 14 points, followed by Greg Necaise with 10 points.

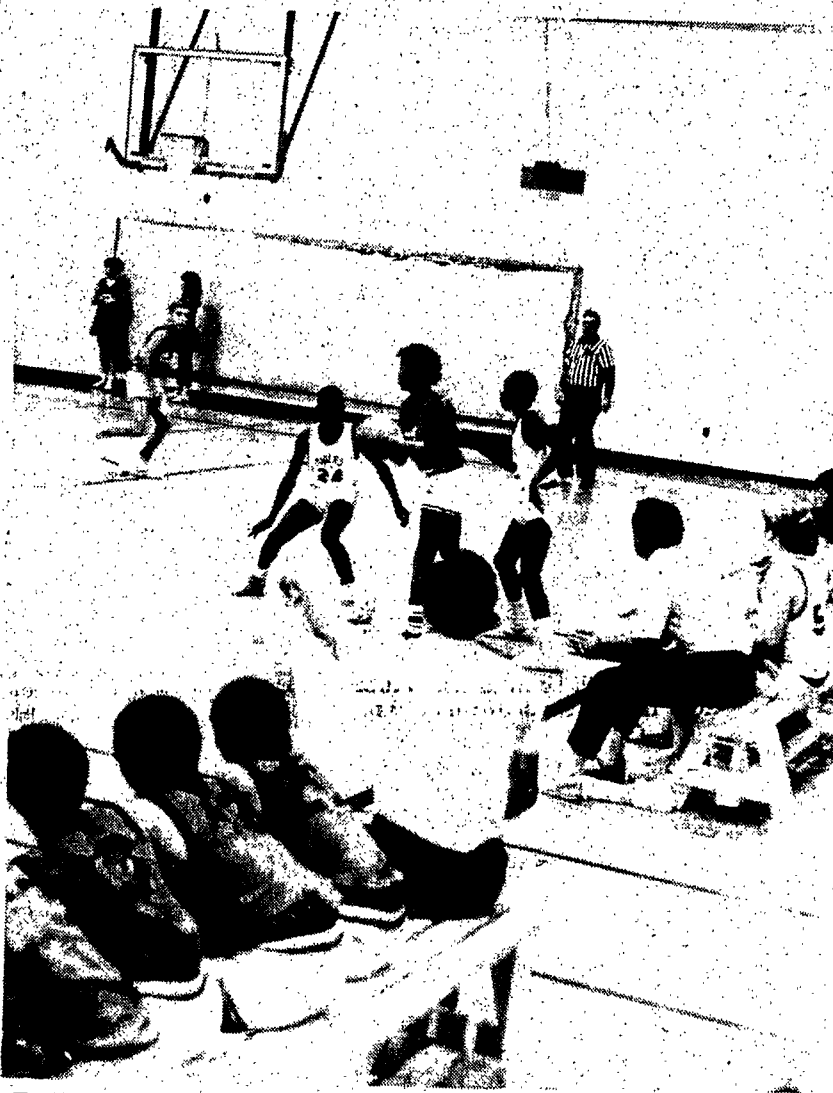

St. Stanislaus, 0-3, springs back in action after the Thanksgiving holidays.

Gulf fisheries receive grant

A grant of $41,500 has been awarded for promoting fisheries' management in the Gulf Coast area, Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) said.

The Senator said the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) was approving the funding for the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission headquartered at Ocean Springs.

The agency said the grant to the Gulf States commission was to help "identify and promote methods of fostering cooperation among member states and to recommend suitable policies and strategies to individual states for effective fisheries management."

Wild turkey eludes holiday dinner

(Editor's Note: The following newsfeature is adapted from the article "Flights of Fancy" which appears in the December/January issue of 'International Wildlife' magazine. The piece was authored by Jay Heinrichs. Permission is granted to use the article or newsfeature in whole or in part, as long as the magazine is given credit.

One breed of turkey will likely beat getting basted this holiday season: the wild turkeys, the speedsters of the species.

Wild gobblers have been clocked in flight at top speeds of 42 miles per hour; and, even on the ground, they can dash faster than all but the fastest human runners. They are among the most elusive game animals around, according to the current issue of 'International Wildlife' magazine.

The birds seem to prefer walking to flying, but when they do fly, they can zoom through the air with surprising agility. Their powerful legs and wings, specially adapted for rapid acceleration, help boost the bulky bird from the ground.

The wild birds, indeed, are a breed apart from their domesticated kin—farm turkeys—which have lost their swiftness and ability to fly.

The wild turkey's fast maneuvers, however, are short-lived. After a quick burst of speed, the bird becomes exhausted. The gobbler rarely attempts flights longer than a quarter-mile; and, even on the ground, it doesn't get very far. It lacks a red pigment that, in far-flying birds, combines with oxygen to burn energy over long distances. (The absence of the red pigment also explains why most wild turkey meat is white.)

Despite the bird's flagging endurance, catching the animal is no easy matter. "I've chased a wild turkey down on foot myself, with the help of another fellow," says Lovett Williams, a Florida biologist. "Doing it, though, damn near killed us."

OUTSTANDING—Jacob Dupree, a senior at Hancock North Central High School, has been selected Student of the Month for November by the Bay St. Louis Exchange Club. Dupree serves as president of the senior class and the student council. He is a member of the Hancock North Central Hawks football team and was selected most valuable player for the Wendell Ladner Bowl. He was student coordinator of the school's 1985 homecoming activities. Dupree has an A average and was nominated for the Student of the Month award by Guidance Counselor Nancy Smith. DYNAMITE HALFBACKS—Erin O'Brien, left, and Day Hays play halfback for the Dynamites in the Mississippi Youth Soccer Association's Fall Soccer Festival in Pearl.

Dynamite ties Slidell, competes in Pearl

Gifts to Gold Dynamite soccer team tied a post-season match 1-1 Saturday with the Slidell Girls Under-10 Select team.

Whitney White scored the Dynamite's only goal. In other recent action, Dynamite travelled to Pearl to participate in the Mississippi Youth Soccer Association Fall Soccer Festival.

The first game of the tournament for Dynamite was against Vicksburg, last year's state champions.

Vicksburg won 2-1. Kim Weinstein scored the only goal for the Dynamites.

On a second attempt to score, Weinstein was flipped to the ground when a goalie attempted to tackle the ball. She was unable to complete the tournament due to injuries.

Jennifer Carter, Dynamite's center fullback, ended the first game with both knees injured and was also out for the remainder of the tournament.

Dynamite lost its second match to Southwest Jackson and tied Clinton. Vicksburg won the tournament and complimented Dynamite for being their toughest competitors.

Dynamite coaches Kathy Edwards and Rachel Weinstein complimented the team on their level of play against some of the best teams in the state, noting the closeness of the scores.

Dynamite was the only under-12 girls team from the southern half of the state to participate in the tournament.

The team continues to practice in preparation for its next tournament, which will be Jan. 11 and 12 in Slidell.

Soccer clinic set in Gulfport

The third annual free soccer clinic will be held Saturday, Dec. 7, at Milner Stadium in Gulfport for all Coast players, coaches and enthusiasts.

The main purpose of the event is to give instructional sessions to area players.

Roy Patton, head coach of the University of South Alabama, and players will conduct the soccer clinic.

Two sessions will be held: the morning clinic from 9-11 a.m., and an afternoon session from 1-3 p.m.

The event is open to everyone. In addition, the South Alabama

Jaguars will play in an exhibition match between Keesler Air Force Base, slated for 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Patten, born in Belfast, Northern Ireland, achieved playing honors including All-Irish University Team, twice the finalist of the Ireland University Cup and winner of the British Youth Championship Cup. He is a certified USSF coach and certified Irish Football Association coach.

The free soccer clinic is sponsored by the Coast Coca-Cola Bottling Company Inc. of Gulfport and the South Mississippi Soccer Club.

Blue tongue disease found in deer population

Again this year biologists with the Department of Wildlife Conservation are finding evidence of blue tongue disease among the deer population in various sections of Mississippi.

Officials have been monitoring the disease in the Magnolia State for a number of years as part of a nationwide surveillance sponsored by the southeastern Cooperative Wildlife Disease Study in Atlanta.

"We have found that the incidence of blue tongue varies from year to year and from region to region," biologist Ed Hackett of Meridian said.

"During 1984-85 our biologists reported seven counties with signs of blue tongue, and indications are that it may be up this year."

Hackett said that he and others have found that more deer check positive for exposure to blue tongue in areas of the state which have a high deer population.

In its most dramatic form, blue tongue can cause death in white-tailed deer within 24 hours, but in the milder form, it causes only some lameness and weight loss from which deer can recover. Signs of blue tongue in a deer are sloughing hooves, excessive weight loss, and sores on the mouth, tongue, and dental pad, Hackett explained.

"Internally there will be signs of hemorrhaging around several organs."

Wildlife officials are encouraging hunters on state operated wildlife management areas to bring all deer harvested there to a nearby check station so biologists can check all deer for signs of blue tongue.

Other hunters who suspect blue tongue in a deer they harvest should contact their local conservation officer or district biologist.

Based on extensive exposure under both field and laboratory conditions, blue tongue does not infect humans.

DWC NEEDS HUNTERS' HELP

Very simply stated, the Department of Wildlife Conservation wants the deer hunters in northeast Mississippi to know one thing: if the deer herd in that area is to be improved, the Department must have the help of the ethical hunters.

Department officials attribute the low number of deer in the northeastern portion of the state to outlaws and slob hunters. To combat this, state wildlife enforcement officers are asking ethical hunters and other responsible citizens to report incidents of headlighting, poaching, road hunting, and other violations.

Conservation officer supervisor Mackie Thornton of Fulton says that calling the local sheriff's office is often the best way to report a wildlife violation.

"The sheriff's office is in radio contact with wildlife department officers, and because the sheriff's department knows the locale so well, they are better able to direct us to a complaint," Thornton explained.

Another way to report violations, Thornton says, is to call 1-800-BE SMART (1-800-237-6278). This is a direct telephone line to the Jackson office of the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Only wildlife violation calls are taken on this line. The information is then relayed via radio communications to officers in the field. They follow up as soon as possible.

Because wildlife enforcement officers cannot issue a citation without witnessing a violation, it is important for a concerned citizen to sign an affidavit when they see a violation.

"If every ethical and responsible hunter would take these actions, and support others who do the same, the outlaws and slobs would soon learn that they won't be tolerated," Thornton said.

NEW WILDLIFE HEAD CHOSEN

Jack Herring of Jackson has been selected by the Commission on Wildlife Conservation as the new director for the Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife within the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Herring, 41, is a 17-year veteran of the state wildlife agency, recently serving as chief of the freshwater fisheries division.

A graduate of the University of Mississippi with a master's degree in biology, Herring began work with the Department in 1969 as a fisheries field biologist.

He served for seven years as head of fisheries research work at the W. H. Turcotte Laboratory on Ross Barnett Reservoir. Herring is married to the former Nola Ann Sprayberry of McCool. They have one daughter, Amy, 12.

Panther Coach Curtis Colson named the following outstanding Panthers: Scott Marshall, scored tying goal; Geoffrey Kohl, outstanding player for the week; Curt Colson, outstanding halfback; and James Reso, most improved fullback.

"The Panthers are looking forward to the spring season and would like to thank their parents, sponsors, and coaches for their support during the fall soccer season," Colson said.

Irma Thomas special on WYES

New Orleans jazz favorite Irma Thomas will perform a wide variety of holiday music in a new WYES Christmas concert special, HOME FOR CHRISTMAS: IRMA THOMAS, airing Friday, December 6, at 9 p.m., on Channel 12.

Performing both solo and with two choirs, Thomas creates the holiday mood with such favorites as "I'll Be Home For Christmas," "Oh Holy Night," "Jingle Bell Rock," "The Christmas Song," "The Twelve Days of Christmas (Cajun Style)," and "Let It Snow."

Thomas will be accompanied by Skip Darzensburg on the organ and electric piano and flutist Joe Saulsbury.

Also appearing with Thomas is the Hynes School Children's Choir performing "Jingle Bells," and "The Little Drummer Boy." Along with the 40-member combined choirs of the Calvary and Marine Baptist Churches, she will perform "Joy To The World," "Carol of the Bells," "Go Tell It On The Mountain," and others.

FRESHWATER SHRIMP—Mississippi's freshwater shrimp research has already gained international attention. German entrepreneur Peter Derr learned about the research from Lt. Gov. Brad Dye when the two met in Germany during an earlier trade mission by Mississippi officials and industrialists. So when Derr came to the U.S. in mid-November, Lt. Gov. Dye took him to the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station for a first-hand look at the aquaculture program and a personal briefing by aquaculture scientists. From left are Derr; interpreter Peter Manown; Louis D'Abramo and John Heinen, assistant professors in the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, MAFES/MSU; and Lt. Gov. Dye, who is holding a mature shrimp during a tour of the MAFES shrimp hatchery facilities.

Gulf Coast Tourism down

By Bart L. Parker

Restaurant and hotel-motel sales on the Mississippi Gulf Coast remained depressed during the second quarter of 1985.

A 20 percent increase in April-through-June gasoline seawall tax collections was among the only encouraging indicators for the Mississippi Gulf Coast tourism industry during the past spring, according to a recent study.

"Tourism indicators...mostly continued a first-quarter downward plunge," the University of Southern Mississippi Bureau of Business Research announced in a second-quarter report on the Mississippi Gulf Coast travel industry.

Restaurant sales in the state's three coastal counties were down 6 percent during the second quarter—about a $2.7 million decrease from 1984 figures over the same period of time. Hotel-motel sales were down 4 percent—about a $700,000 decrease.

April-through-June restaurant sales were $46.3 million, compared to $49 million in 1984 and $47.1 million in 1983. Hotel-motel sales from April through June were $16.9 million, compared to $17.6 million in 1984.

"Composite current dollar decreases in both restaurant sales and hotel-motel sales...indicate significant declines in business activity...especially after the adjustment for inflation," reported the business research bureau, which is a division of the USM College of Business Administration.

Visitation at the Gulf Islands National Seashore, a relative measure of tourist participation, was "another exception among the quarter's tourism indicators," said the report.

The seashore—which includes the Davis Bayou Camp area in Ocean Springs plus Horn, Ship and Petit Bois islands—had 32 percent more visitors from April through June than during that same period of time last year.

However, visitation at Beauvoir, the Jefferson Davis Shrine, was down 3 percent during the second quarter, with revenue from admissions and gifts slightly down. The Gulf Islands National Seashore had 367,764 visitors and Beauvoir 25,470 from April through June of this year.

Inquiries received during the second quarter by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Visitors Bureau were down 24 percent from last year. There were 20,468 second-quarter inquiries by potential visitors to the area, compared to 26,639 during the same period of time last year.

While the actual number of conventions from April through June was down 11 percent from last year, the individual participation in conventions was up 13 percent. Last year, second-quarter conventions totaled 93, and included 27,654 delegates. This year, from April through June, there were 83 conventions and 31,165 delegates.

"In general, tourism activity along the Mississippi Gulf Coast was depressed during the second quarter, according to the reported indicators," said the USM bureau, which is directed by Dr. D. C. Williams Jr.

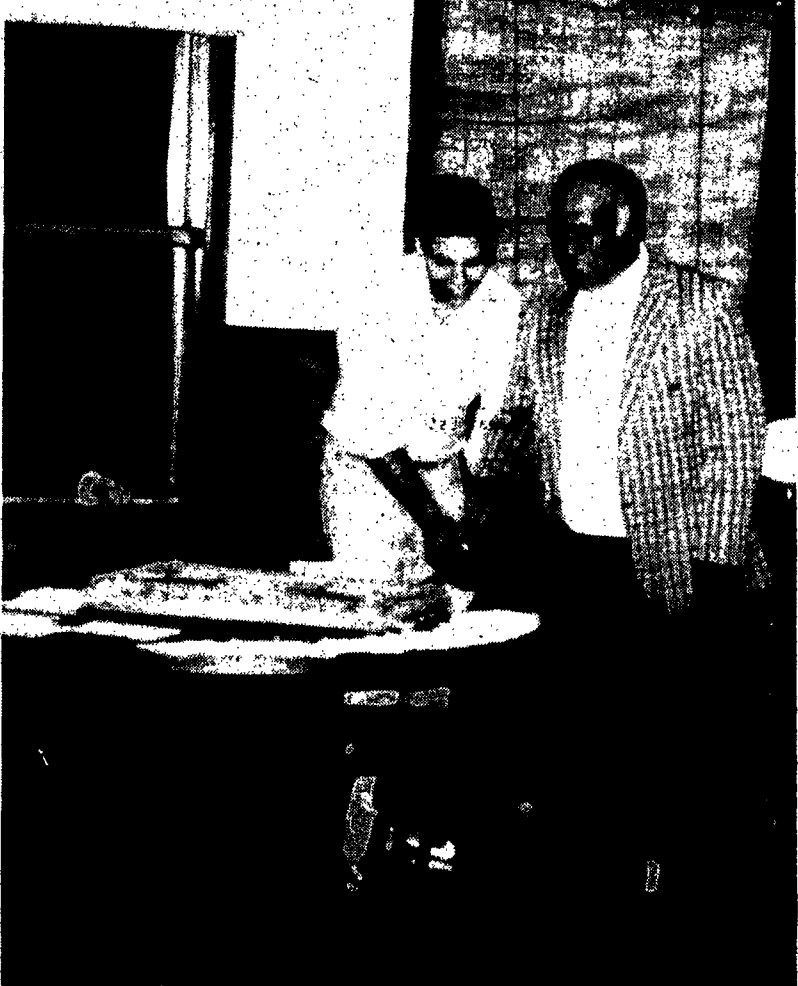

The bureau report noted special seawall taxes collected in the three coastal counties reflect automobile travel activity. The tax—2 cents per gallon in Harrison and Jackson counties, and 3 cents in Hancock County—brought in second-quarter revenue of $778,360 compared to $650,969 during the same period of time last year.

In hotel-motel sales, Hancock County and Jackson County actually reported increases, 9 percent and 1 percent respectively, in second-quarter revenues this year over last year. However, those two counties combined only bring in about 15 percent of the three coastal counties' total hotel-motel sales.

Each of the counties reported second-quarter decreases in restaurant sales in comparison with second-quarter sales last year. Hancock County, which reported a 35 percent increase in restaurant sales for the first quarter of this year over 1984 first quarter sales, reported a 4 percent decrease during the second quarter.

Harrison and Jackson counties, which bring in about 93 percent of restaurant sales in the coastal counties, reported declines of 7 percent and 2 percent, respectively, in second quarter activity this year over last year. Harrison County reported $29.2 million and Jackson County, $13.3 million, in restaurant sales from April through June of this year.

Power companies do not own rights-of-way

Mississippi Power Company is reminding all outdoorsmen to check with private landowners before hunting on electric power line rights-of-way.

"Mississippi Power Company does not own these rights-of-way which traverse rural areas," Cliff Mitchell, the utility's forester said. "These are privately owned lands that we have an easement on. The rights-of-way are not public land."

Mitchell said private landowners have been having problems with hunters who unknowingly trespass on their land.

"Some of these hunters have gotten into arguments with landowners saying the rights-of-way either are public lands or belong to Mississippi Power Company," Mitchell said. "I want to make it clear that Mississippi Power Company does not own these rights-of-way and that the private landowner has full authority to allow hunters to use the land or to post it."

Mississippi Power Company has easements on more than 2,200 miles of right-of-way in rural areas of southeast Mississippi, including more than 1,000 miles in Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, Pearl River and Stone counties.

Jacob selected Outstanding Young Man

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America awards program announced today that Paul Bernard Jacob III has been selected for inclusion in the 1985 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

Jacob was selected from nominations received from Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Mayors, State Legislators, University and College Presidents and Deans as well as various civic groups.

In every community there are young men working diligently to make their cities, as well as their country, better places in which to live. MSU STENNIS SCHOLAR MEETS THE SENATOR—George L. Paul of Bay St. Louis (1) chatted with Senator John C. Stennis prior to a recent Mississippi State University ceremony honoring the Stennis Scholars in Political Science. Paul is a freshman Stennis Scholar. The son of Mrs. Syble Paul attended Bay Senior High School.

USM project focuses on writing instruction

A "state-of-the-art" model for improving writing instruction will be implemented in four Hattiesburg-area public school districts next summer.

"The model is taking successful composition teachers and training them to become better teachers—selecting those who will work best with other teachers and appointing them as teacher-consultants," said Dr. David Roberts, project director for the South Mississippi Writing Project.

More than $85,000 in funding for the project recently was completed when the Mississippi Power Foundation Inc. announced it will supply a $15,000 grant toward the University of Southern Mississippi-sponsored effort.

The National Endowment for the Humanities, through the California-based National Writing Project, earlier promised $15,000 in matching funds. The bulk of the funding, $48,000, will be provided by USM. The four school districts will pick up a $4,850 commitment.

"The National Writing Project is probably the most successful model in the United States for improving writing instruction," said Dr. Tom Wacaster of the Meridian-based Hardin Foundation, which earlier this year supplied a $3,472 planning grant for the South Mississippi Writing Project.

Petal Schools Assistant Superintendent Mike Walters said he and representatives of three other school districts—Hattiesburg, Forrest County and Forrest County Agricultural—believe the National Writing Project is "the" way to improve writing skills.

Representatives of the four Hattiesburg-area school districts initiated the South Mississippi Writing Project last year by asking the university to develop a project for their schools based on the National Writing Project model. They had determined writing instruction was a common problem.

Implementing the writing project will involve selecting about 25 teachers on a competitive basis to attend a six-week institute next summer, explained Dr. Roberts, an associate professor of English and director of composition at USM.

A few of the most able teachers will be selected as teacher-consultants to pass their knowledge along to colleagues at in-service training sessions during the 1988-89 school year, Roberts said, noting the project could be used to provide teachers in-service training required by the 1982 Education Reform Act.

The South Mississippi Writing Project is one of numerous outgrowths of the National Writing Project. Originally the Bay Area Writing Project, the National Writing Project was begun in 1974 as an experiment to improve the teaching of writing in public schools. This year, it boasted about 150 affiliates around the country and abroad.

Along with USM, Delta State University and the University of Mississippi are set to implement National Writing Project affiliates in 1988. Mississippi State implemented an affiliate this past summer.
